JURY SETS $292,000 AS PRICE FOR PURCHASE OF PARCELS 11, 12

by Virginia Beauchamp

A purchase price of $292,000 — or $16,450 per acre — was set at a jury hearing Tuesday, March 14, on the city's condemnation suit on parcels 11 and 12, a tract of 17.784 acres which will become part of Greenbelt Lake development (see map).

Although appraisers representing the city and those representing the owners (Charles Bresler, Theodore Lerner and H. Max Ammerman, trustees) were far apart in their evaluation of the property, all four agreed that the tract should be developed according to R-55 zoning density. Leslie Smith of Ben Dyer and Associates, representing the owners, testified that the tract should be developed as 68 lots for single family dwellings at a value of $3,000 per lot and $204,000 for development costs. He used Tantallon, College Heights Estates and similar exclusive subdivisions as analogies for the type of development projected for the site.

Adelbert W. Lee, appraiser for the owners, valued the property at $386,000. The figure set by the other appraiser, Michael Hagen, was $389,500. In contrast, the city's appraisers, John W. Fincham and Clifford Piercy, appraised the property at $249,600 and $195,000 respectively.

This decision sets the total parkland acquisition figure for parcels 9, 10, 11, and 12 at $402,500. The citizens approved a $250,000 bond issue to help pay for the land, and the federal grant awarded toward this purchase amounts to $167,500.

City manager James K. Giese noted that city officials were "quite satisfied with the outcome." It is "well within our budget," he said.

"The action of the past and present city councils to pursue the acquisition of this land," he stated, "was one of the most significant steps in the long range considerations toward the planned development of the city. Future generations will appreciate that land very much."

City Notes

The Public Works Dept's program of repainting equipment in all the neighborhood playgrounds is progressing from the North End of town toward the top of Ridge and Crescent. Early this week all painting had been completed as far as Gardenway. The crew also laid a sloping asphalt base around the foot of the statue in the Center to discourage the placing there of flammable materials.

The return of spring has called for the increase of special trash pickups and the leaf vacuum made the rounds on Tuesday of this week, after an exceptionally warm Saturday sent everyone out to raking yards and gardens. The work crew also patched chuckholes in the streets, replaced lights in the commercial Center, and made minor repairs at the Youth Center.

LATE BULLETIN

After a four-hour hearing, the the county commissioners on Wednesday, March 15, sitting as the District Council took under advisement the rezoning petitions for parcel 15, the land between Greenbelt Lake and Greenbelt Road alongside the Capital Beltway. The owners (Charles Bresler, Theodore Lerner, and associates) had requested R-18 zoning (apartments 18-20 units per acre) for 27.52 acres and C-1 (local commercial) for 5 acres. The city, citizens groups, and individuals made presentations requesting denial of the petitions.

COUNCIL REJECTS MICHNICK OFFER FOR C-1 REZONING OF PARCEL 8

by Elaine Skolnik

City manager James K. Giese reported at Monday's city council meeting that the city has received a proposal from Simon Michnick of Crescent Leasing Corporation to the effect that "if he could be assured of commercial zoning on parcel 8, he would not take an appeal on parcels 9 and 10."

Michnick was referring to an appeal of the condemnation jury decision of March 7 which set a purchase price of $110,000 for parcels 9 and 10 adjacent to Greenbelt Lake, forming part of the land which the city wants for parkland and a municipal service building. Parcel 8, comprising 2.12 acres, is located across Crescent rd. from parcel 9, between Kenilworth Ave. and Ridge Rd. north of Crescent Rd. The city successfully opposed a C-1 (neighborhood commercial) zoning petition for parcel 8 at a hearing before the county commissioners on October 12, 1966. The commissioners concluded that commercial zoning for this parcel which sits astride the entrance to the city was not in the public interest.

Michnick also told the city manager that since the city was concerned about the appearance of the entrance to the city, ways of sight-screening Parcel 8 along Crescent Rd. would be considered.

The four councilmen present voted unanimously to advise Michnick that the city was not interested in his proposal at this time. Councilman David Champion was absent.

Other Action

In other action, the council voted unanimously to enact an ordinance.

GHI Sets Special Membership Meeting on New Resale Policy

by Al Skolnik

In accordance with a petition signed by 123 accredited Greenbelt Homes, Inc. members, the GHI board of directors set Thursday, April 6, 1967, for a special membership meeting to consider a new resale policy for larger homes. The action, which was taken at the Board's regular meeting on March 9, was unanimous, though some board members expressed reservations about holding a special meeting in preference to combining it with the annual membership meeting tentatively scheduled for May 17.

Director Nat Shinderman chairman of the committee for larger homes said that he favored a combined meeting since this would provide the largest forum for consideration of the topic and there would also be a savings in cost. However he said he voted for the special meeting to avoid any implication that the board was trying to thwart the purpose of the petition. Director Katherine Keene expressed her concern that a combined meeting would not allow ample time to discuss the resale policy fully.

Shinderman read into the record a reply to criticism by director Cliff Simonson at the Feb. 9 meeting, that the free-standing homes are costing more than originally contemplated and are beyond the means of most GHI members. Shinderman pointed out that the size of the homes was expanded by 17.5 percent at the request of the four purchasers, who were agreeable to paying the higher costs. He was certain that the costs of the 25 townhouses yet to come would be much closer to the projected costs.

Shinderman also took exception to Simonson's statement regarding the use of reserve funds for a few members at the expense of the many. Shinderman referred to the many GHI programs which are now using reserves to benefit a few — such as the financing of loans for home improvements, the financing of garage enclosures, and the financing of storage facilities for boats and trailers.

In the case of the four homes, Shinderman said, the reserve funds will be used only until the land can be released from the FNMA mortgage and outside funds are available. In the meantime, Shinderman said, the corporation is earning interest on these mortgages in excess of the interest now being received on its bank and savings and loan investments.

Schwan Statement

GHI president Charles Schwan said he fully recognized the right of members to call for a special meeting, but he resented deeply the way in which the issue was presented to the membership. He referred to the title of the petition, which read: "Petition for Special Membership Meeting to Prevent Profiteering at the Expense of GHI and its Members."

Profiteering, said Schwan, citing the dictionary, refers to one who takes advantage of abnormal conditions such as war to make excessive profit. As such, Schwan continued, it is a term of reproach and disdain. He said the drafters of the petition used the term deliberately as a propaganda device in a situation that was not applicable.

One of the defenders of the petition, William Feller, said that Schwan was making too much of the matter and that the intent was merely to refer to excess profit.

Other Action

The board unanimously approved the construction of two new parking lots for GHI members. One would be near the Lutheran Church on Ridge and the other at the corner of Hillside and Laurel. The capital costs would be spread over the entire membership and incorporated in the monthly charges over a period of years. This method is called "charging costs on a capital recovery basis."

The board agreed to study the question of having a separate capital budget in addition to an operating budget so as to identify long-term needs and the methods of financing such needs.

Read into the record was a thank-you letter from Governor Spiro T. Agnew regarding the Bresler appointment. Agnew said he appreciated GHI's "reasonable approach to a difficult problem."

The regular board meeting of March 23 was postponed to Wednesday, March 29 because of the Easter holidays.

To the Editor

We Need Your Help - And May You Never Need Ours!

We need your help to help you and your neighbors. By we, I speak of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad.

Our purpose for existence is to raise money, with various activities, to enable us to buy or help the firemen buy things they need to help protect us. One such purchase is a machine called the salvage master, which serves as a vacuum cleaner to pick up water. It came in very handy lately when the sprinkler system in the Convalescent Center began working overtime.

Our men volunteer their time and often risk their lives to save our homes and lives. The least we can do is help them obtain things that will help them help us.

The only qualifications you need are to be a citizen of the community and be over 18 years old.

We hope you will never need the help of this fire department, but if you do, we want the men to have the equipment they need to help you. It is a wonderful feeling to

Resale of New GHI Homes

The real issues involved have been obscured in the News Review reporting of the large homes controversy. The four free standing homes are to provide low cost housing for large GHI families. This policy will be accomplished only for the four original buyers. Upon resale, under the present formula, the prices will eventually escalate beyond the means of most large GHI families thus defeating the purpose of subsidizing the homes.

If the original purchaser buys at cost, the resale policy should include the same principle so that all purchasers may buy at cost with their investments properly protected against both loss and inflation.

This is what the April 6 special membership meeting is all about.

Two Large Parks To be Developed

General development plans for two large parks in Prince Georges County — Beltsville Recreation Center and the Robert M. Watkins Regional Park near Largo — have been approved by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The Parks Department staff has been directed to complete detailed site plans for both parks in time to permit initial development to begin in early summer.

Beltsville Recreation Center encompasses 125 acres lying west of Montgomery Ave. along the Little Paint Branch between Sellman Rd. and Powder Mill Rd. The MNCPPC has already purchased 118 acres of the proposed 125 acres and has built one ballfield in the park.

Initial development will include a community building, two tennis courts, a multi-purpose court, a backstop for the existing ballfield, as well as required filling and grading. Some $50,000 has been budgeted for this purpose, $36,000 of which will be realized from a bond issue scheduled for late March or early April.

In addition, final development plans provide for: three more athletic fields, including a football field; an authentic Indian village; an interpretation building explaining Indian lore and history; a small lake; two additional tennis courts; an archery range; and nature and bridge trails.

Most of the 439 acres of Robert M. Watkins Regional Park are going to be left in their natural state. The second of two regional parks in the County scheduled for initial development within a year, Watkins Park lies east of Largo along Western Branch and Enterprise Road just south of Central Avenue.

Initial development will include an athletic field complex, a nature center, a maintenance building, eight tennis courts, and access roads and parking areas.

Eventually, the park will feature a miniature farm and farm museum. Crops of Southern Maryland—including tobacco and corn—will be planted and harvested to give present and future generations of youngsters the opportunity to visit and learn more about a working farm.

Final development of Watkins Park will also include an equestrian area, individual and trailer camp sites, an amphitheater, a restaurant, and botanical gardens.

FLYING OBJECT SOARS ... BUT NO UFO

To area residents watching the sky during the three nights following Wednesday, March 8, it was quite evident that something unusual was going on. Phone calls arrived from as far as Baltimore — about a dozen of them being routed to the Goddard Space Flight Center (GSFC) switchboard alone — some of them reporting an unidentified flying object, others claiming that there was an aircraft in distress overhead, or a satellite re-entering the atmosphere. All agreed that whatever it was emitted bright light and slowly moved above the vicinity of Greenbelt.

As a matter of fact, it was an airplane, and the purpose of its nocturnal flights was to train crews for NASA's world-wide tracking network, which follows both manned and unmanned spacecraft. A new facility to provide such training, adjacent to GSFC, has been operating since the beginning of this year.

The aircraft, equipped with satellite-type transmitters and operated by GSFC out of Friendship airport (it was on view there during Goddard's last open house) is intended to simulate the motion of a satellite. While it was making passes at altitudes of 2,000, 10,000 and 17,000 feet, crews at the training facility — which contains a complete tracking station including a 30-foot diameter dish antenna — were tracking it from the ground. The brightly shining light mounted on the airplane was designed only to aid radar operators in pointing their antennas.

No new tests of this kind are scheduled for the next few months. When they resume, Goddard officials — some of whom had to stay awake late at night to answer the stream of phone calls — promise ample public notice beforehand.

Muirkirk Landfill Would Cover Dinosaur Bones

A controversy has arisen in Prince Georges County concerning a proposal by the government of the District of Columbia to create a land-fill project in Muirkirk — a small town about seven miles north of Greenbelt — as a substitute for the ill-famed Kenilworth dump.

The Muirkirk site is famous for dinosaur fossils, which were found there in 1880, when pits were dug for iron ore. The book, "Fossils in America," by Jay Ellis Ransom, lists Muirkirk as one of the few locations in Maryland where such large fossils have been found. The original specimens, part of a Sauropod (a Brontosaurus-like dinosaur) are now stored at the Smithsonian Museum. There is every likelihood that more may be found at Muirkirk, according to a reliable source; not, however, if the iron pits are filled.

Delegate Arthur Dorman has introduced a bill in the State Legislature which would require that any land-fill operation in Muirkirk be authorized by the Prince Georges County Commissioners. A special bill would be necessary because the site in question is owned by the District of Columbia.

County officials say they are not against a clean, sound landfill operation, but they want to avoid the sad example of Washington's Kenilworth dump. That dump, with its characteristic cloud of dirty smoke has plagued the low-income (and politically powerless), residents along the Anacostia River for many years.

Where To Go... DAVID P. STERN

Haussner's in Baltimore

Some people dine out in order to give their wife a respite, or because their steaks got burned in the oven. For those, however, whose main reason for eating away from home is the enjoyment of something different, we recommend Haussner's in Baltimore. It is different from anything else we have ever seen.

Haussner's is more than a restaurant; it also is an art gallery. True, it is not exactly comparable to the National Gallery, or to the Baltimore Museum of Art. However, what it lacks in big-name appeal it makes up in quantity: not only are the dining room's walls, pillars and ceiling ducts densely blanketed with paintings, but so is the banquet room downstairs, and as if that weren't enough, there is a small (free) museum upstairs, dedicated to the Salvation Army. Subject, style, size and quality are randomly distributed throughout, and the impression is overwhelming, even if one does not step into the bar to ogle the nudes.

If area of painted canvas can serve as a measure, Mr. Haussner has given away more than he has kept. A decade and a half ago he purchased the world's second largest canvas painting (strange as it seems, there is a bigger one), a WW I extravaganza titled "Pantheon of War" and displaying thousands of soldiers in a gigantic review. The price of the painting came to about the same figure, per square foot, as that of land around Greenbelt (the sale followed a bankruptcy), and several derricks were required to unroll it for viewing. It was finally given to Kansas City, but two pieces cut from it are displayed in Haussner's upstairs museum.

The food, too, is different. The cuisine is German-Continental and the accent is on variety and width of selection, which exceeds many times what one finds in the average restaurant. Where else can you get your choice among Paprika Schnitzel, Whale steak, Hasenpfeffer (Rabbit, German style), Maryland Terrapin, Ox tongue and Hungarian goulash, not to mention the seafood dishes which constitute the greater part of the menu, or the standard steak dishes? Where else can you choose from over 30 vegetable side dishes, including fried eggplant and three varieties of dumpling? Prices are quite reasonable, and a typical dinner costs around three dollars, extras not included.

Just to allay suspicion, let it be added here that this article is not being written in expectation of a reward from Haussner's. In fact, publicity, is what the restaurant needs least of all: its waiting line is almost as well known as its art and food. A word of caution: on Sundays and Mondays Haussner's is closed.

It is about 45 minutes' driving from Greenbelt to Haussner's. Take the Baltimore Parkway and the Harbor Tunnel, leaving the tollway at exit 3 (O'Donnell str., West). After passing beneath the tollway, continue for about 0.8 mile to Clinton street. Turn right and continue to Eastern Ave.: you will find Haussner's on the corner and across the street on your left. We hope you enjoy it.

dinance to "establish a land acquisition fund" and to appropriate $111,000 from the fund for the purchase of parcels 9 and 10. (The additional $1,000 is for incidental expenses relating to the purchase of the parcels.)

Council also passed for second reading and final passage a resolution for the acquisition of two acres of parcel 15 for park purposes. In its resolution, the council noted that the land, if developed, will detract from the natural beauty of the Greenbelt Lake area and restrict its recreational use.

Following the city council meeting, Emmett Nanna, Jr., the city's special zoning attorney, and Buford Hayden of Mott and Hayden, planners, met with citizens to discuss the parcel 15 hearing.

School Bus Drivers In Training Program

As part of a continuing program of safety education 347 school bus drivers for the Board of Education of Prince Georges County are attending classes in a Driver Improvement Program.

Greenbelt is among the locations where the program is being conducted.

The Prince Georges County Board of Education operates daily a fleet of 431 school buses including the buses held as reserves in the event of an emergency. These buses transport about 52000 pupils daily to and from school. During this school year, these buses will have travelled approximately 4½ million miles.

Post's Cartoonist "Parker" Donates Drawings to Benefit Freedom of the Press Fund

Parker, cartoonist of the Washington Post, has contributed eight framed original pen-and-ink cartoons to be sold for the benefit of the Greenbelt Freedom of the Press Committee. Most of them have appeared in the Post. The drawings may be seen at the office of the Twin Pines Savings and Loan Assn. Most are priced at $10.00; a few range up to $20.00.

Isadore Parker, long a Greenbelt resident, worked on the staff of the Greenbelt News Review for many years. He served as editor twice, in 1949 and during 1955-56. His cartoons were a popular News Review feature, especially the series "There's One in every Car Pool," which commented on transportation difficulties in the early years of Greenbelt.

The accompanying Parker cartoons originally appeared in the News Review during the Fifties.

A Saturday night hootenanny and dance will be held in Treetop House, the large A-frame lodge. Bring your swimming suits for the sauna.

Pictures and additional information at Twin Pines.

1966 was a better year for Twin Pines than 1965. The total amount of savings accounts and loans increased 18%, while our net income showed an increase of 33%. The regular 5% dividend was paid, amounting to a total of $51,145. Twin Pines has paid a total of $222,494 in dividends to its members in its short history.

The average size of savings accounts and of loans continues to increase. In 1966 there were 2,368 accounts with an average of $492, up from $477 in 1965; 522 borrowers with average loans of $2,465, up from $2,298. 1,473 families were represented in our membership at the end of 1966. Of these 217 families had from $10 to $100; 1,100 families had $100 or more in their accounts.

We are asking the Maryland Share Savings Insurance Corporation to reconsider our application for membership. Our liquidity reserves and bad debt reserves are not up to the requirements of the Insurance Corporation, but we believe we can satisfy these requirements with new and special deposits tied into our getting the deposit insurance.

During 1966 the loan committee held 47 meetings and considered an average of 8 loan applications per meeting. The total value of the loans issued in 1966 was $712,550 - an increase of 7 per cent from the $665,740 in 1965.

Much committee time was spent appraising homes. This work is complicated, not only because the State requires the appraisal, but also because the committee tries sincerely to weigh all interests - the seller's, the buyer's, the membership and the community. An average of five appraisals were made each week.

Complete copies of the audit report, Board of Directors' and Loan Committee reports are available at Twin Pines office.

Now — U. S. Savings Bonds Pay More Interest

4.15% when held to maturity

Higher interest on the Bonds you already own, too!

U.S. Savings Bonds are a better way to save than ever

Because now all Series E and Series H Bonds bought after December 1, 1965, will earn the new, higher interest rate of 4.15% when held to maturity. That's only 7 years for Series E — 9 months quicker than before. All H Bond interest checks will be larger beginning in June 1966.

And your outstanding bonds will earn more, too, from now on. So, you don't have to cash in your present Bonds to get the attractive new rate. Ask about buying Bonds where you work or bank. For America's future. And yours.

"Today, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines."

"Today, above all, is a time for all Americans to rededicate themselves to the spirit that animated the Minutemen of Concord—who serve as a symbol of the Savings Bond program. For today, as at the founding of our nation, it is freedom which is again at stake. Not all of us are called upon to fight in the jungles of Vietnam, but while our men are there, in the front lines of a distant land, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines. We must all do our share—in every way we can—to support our men in Vietnam. One sure way is open to all Americans through the Savings Bond program."

Greenbelters will miss Reverend and Mrs. Kenneth Wyatt, who now reside in Eldersburg, Maryland (near Baltimore). Their contributions to Greenbelt were many. As was said at the reception for the Wyatts, "Greenbelt is richer for having known him and the poorer for his leaving." How does electric heat register at motels?

HOLIDAY INN 1850 Fort Myer Drive, at Key Bridge, Rosslyn, Virginia

GEORGIAN MOTEL 7990 Georgia Avenue, Silver Spring, Maryland

RAMADA INN 1600 New York Avenue, N.E., Washington, D.C.

SILVER SPRING MOTEL 7927 Georgia Avenue, Silver Spring, Maryland

Very favorably

(Just as it will at your house)

Many a home-owner who first experienced the comforts of electric heat while staying at a motel now enjoys it in his own home.

There are several good reasons why motel owners install electric heat but the main one is room-by-room temperature control for the convenience of guests. It's the same degree of control you can have in your house, if you choose electric base-board heat, or radiant heating from electric ceiling cables.

If you prefer warm air heat, a compact electric furnace is ideal. And if you want air conditioning as well as heating from one system, consider the electric heat pump—a single unit that heats or cools at your command.

Whichever you choose, you'll enjoy PEPCO's special low rate for electrically heated homes. It's a twelve-month rate, so it may help save money on cooling as well as heating.
